

GARY POWERS TODAY

Exclusive Interview With Pilot of the U-2 at Maryland Fish-Fry

(Page 3)

Inside The News:

- Ever wonder, as you drive around town, whose car that long, sleek one with the DPL tags might be? Well, today, we publish on page 28 our annual list of Diplomatic license numbers, in convenient form for folding and preserving in your glove compartment. And watch tomorrow's editions of The Washington Daily News for our annual list of holders of the first 1250 regular District tags.

The Pruzzle Man fooled the Pruzzlers again last week, and so now the Pruzzle Pot is bubbling away at the $375 mark. Rundown on the last week's Pruzzle is on page 16; the new Pruzzle is on page 52.

Better news for contest fans is on page 40, where the top winner of the News Oscar competition is announced. A Hyattsville housewife will receive a brand new $2000 Rambler American.

NEW RESIDENTS—Francis Gary Powers, who on May 1, 1960, bailed out of his damaged spy plane over Russia, touching off the sensational U-2 affair, has been living in Alexandria the past few weeks and traveling about town practically unnoticed. Over the week end he attended a party in Forest Heights and told a Washington Daily News reporter some hitherto unrevealed things about his extraordinary experiences. Above, his wife, Barbara, chats with him at the party. (Story and another picture on Page 3.)

News Photo by Lou Balla